
Noelani S

1668 Kempsville Rd.
Virginia Beach, VA 23464
757.648.5700

7th December 2017

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter to stand up for net neutrality.

Please abolish the plan to kill net neutrality. As the internet is a widely used medium for expressing freedom of speech, as well as accessing free and usable content, killing net neutrality would mean killing the voices of people all over the nation. By allowing ISPs to “bundle websites just like they bundle television channels”¹ and essentially divide our internet into two lanes, where the faster lane is dedicated to large companies and households who can afford to pay for each portion, and the slower lane becomes a catch-all for everyone else, the only people benefiting from the switch are the ones making money off of a medium that should never be exploited. Communication and the rapid spread of information is a big deal; don’t take advantage of the biggest tool of our century. The internet is something that should benefit everyone, not something that allows our digital words and opinion to become costly.

I would strongly suggest reconsidering planning to get rid of net neutrality. Thank you for taking the time to read this.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Noelani S". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Noelani" written in a larger, more prominent script than the last initial "S".

Noelani S

¹ Salzberg, Steven. “When The FCC Kills Net Neutrality, Here's What Your Internet Could Look Like.” Forbes, Forbes Magazine, 28 Nov. 2017.